*Rolling Stock formerly
"The Weigh Inn" 1980's*

ABOUT THE venue

Hoxton based independent venue under the arches of the East London line, Rolling Stock links modernity with authenticity, adapting to the ever changing area of Shoreditch while faithful to its cockney heritage.

Family business established in the early 80's as "The Weigh Inn", the first licensed music and dance venue in Shoreditch has been through decades of partying and hasn't finished entertaining Londoners.

The main arch is host to a speakeasy late night bar, with dj sets and live music. on Thursday nights a fortnightly pub quizz, followed by our weekly House'n'Disco sessions until 4am. Every Sunday, Jazztrain Shoreditch brings you the best of jazz and blues in town for an afternoon of live music, with different bands every week.

Under the side arches, The Bunker, an underground club with an intimate ambiance welcomes a diverse curation of house music events every Friday and Saturday.

The beer garden, with cover and heating, is open all year long with a pool table for those who fancy a bit of action with a refreshment! Chilled weekend vibes in the summer, it is turned into a magical winter garden for Christmas, with yummy seasonal cocktails, hot toddies and Baileys hot chocolates served at the bar!

With regular kitchen takeovers by some of the best food vendors in town, Rolling Stock has plenty to offer all year long.
